" I Wish This Mass Would Never End!"

Last week, we had to hold a special memorial Mass in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel because of a conflict with already planned activities in our main church. I expected about 40 people to show up and knew they could all be accommodated in our Chapel. I was proven wrong; about 60 people showed up and we had to have 15 of them attend from the Narthex. We also had to find space for four musicians in the back of the Chapel. The Mass went well. People participated actively in both prayers and songs. There was a strong sense of community. After the Mass, we gathered for fellowship in the Narthex (punch & cookies). I used that opportunity to ask one of the participants, "How did you find the Mass being held in our small Chapel as apposed to the larger Church?" I will never forget the response: "Father, the Mass was great. I wished this Mass would never end!" In my entire priesthood (8 years next month!), I have never heard anyone say that they wished the Mass would have been longer. On the opposite side, I had received feedback from priests from other parishes that the Sunday Mass should never go beyond one hour. Have you ever thought that the Mass you attended was so inspiring that you did not want it to end? Have you ever felt such a joy to participate in the amazing Supper of the Lamb (remember Scott Hahn's book...Mass as Heaven on Earth), that you wished that this heavenly banquet would keep going on?

I am confident that you can remember a few events in your lives that you wished would never end. I, for one, remember as a child spending every month of July at the ocean. This was the best time of the whole year for me. I loved being with the entire family on vacation. My father was able to take the whole month of July off from work. We could play tennis with my father, brother and sister every morning. We could go swimming together in the big waves of the ocean. Many times during these beautiful July months, I was counting the days that were remaining...and I was hoping that the joy of these family vacations would never end. On the other hand, whether as a child or young adult, I do not recall any Mass I wished to last longer: one hour at Mass was just right! However, as I got older, I remember times where I arrived very early at Mass or stayed beyond the final hymn. As a priest, I have wished many times that we could have a longer time of meditation after receiving the Eucharist! The only time I have been able to do so has been when I celebrate the Mass alone at the chapel in our rectory, or when I concelebrated the Mass with other priests at our annual retreat (where I stay a long time in silence in the church after the conclusion of the Mass). If we truly believe that Mass is Heaven on Earth, it is natural that we would like to stay longer with Jesus!

Think about the above statement by one of our parishioners: "I wish the Mass would never end". How do you apply this to your own participation at Mass? Make your own conclusions. Think about dressing up on Sunday morning when coming to encounter God at Mass. Think about arriving early...maybe 15 minutes before Mass begins so as to find time for prayer and meditation (possibly reading the Gospel of the day). Think about staying late so as to spend more time in meditation after receiving the Body of Christ, remembering that your own body has become a living Tabernacle!
